For permanent as well as temporary trusteeships the

Indiana Trust Company

offers the highest advantages. It takes estates in trust for lives in being and for years thereafter, according to the trust. It holds, invests, manages and apportions net proceeds as directed by the trust. Because of its great financial responsibility, and of the expert knowledge and experience of its officers and directors, it presents a perfect assurance to those who would leave property cared for in all details.

LOCAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE. Good Day's Trade for Midsummer-Fluctuations in Values Few.

On the wholesale streets yesterday trade was quite active for July. Traveling salesmen on Saturday brought in a fair number of orders for goods and mall orders were very satisfactory and quite a number of buyers came in. In prices changes were few. In staple groceries there is a firm tone, but the indications of any important advances on any article are not noticeable, but may come later. Dry goods are strong in tone, and a brisk fall trade is in prospect. Provisions are fairly active at the revised quotations of yesterday. Flour rules steady. Receipts of wheat are light, and the market is lightly stocked. On Commission row, as usual on Monday, it was rather quiet; still the ousiness is in excess largely of the corresponding period of last year. In the receipts of fruits and vegetables a good deal of poor stock is shipped, which sells low, but really good stock brings very satisfactory prices. Some very fine peaches are beginning to come in. Tomatoes have been a little scarce the last few days, and the market is firmer. Apples and melons in abundant supply and selling low. Receipts of poultry, eggs and butter are not heavy, and prices move along in the same range of several days past. The hide market shows a little more activity; prices

BETTER CABLES AND VISIBLE DE-CREASE IMPARTED STRENGTH.

Corn Declined on the Crop Reports and a Selling Movement-Provisions Scored Advances.

CHICAGO, July 29 .- Wheat was irregular to-day, but finished with %c gain, helped by better cables and a liberal visible decrease. September corn closed 4c lower, September oats 1/3c higher and provisions at

The wheat trade was surprised to find that the Argentine shipments for the week, instead of being under 100,000 bu or nil, as one cablegram received on Saturday had it, really amounted to the quantity of 680,000 bu. That was the reason for a quick decrease at the start, from 71%c to 71%c for September wheat. It had barely touched the lower of these quotations, however, when it started up again in a hurry, and risen to 72%c. The rise was very irregular after that, with a strongly bullish undertone to the small business which was going on. From 72%c it droped to 71%c, rose again to 72c, and, after some immaterial fluctuations, it got to a still higher point than before, getting to 72%c about two hours from the opening. The Russian shipments for the week were reported at from 2,200,000 bu up to 2,500,000 bu, and India's at only 480,000 bu. Estimating the shipments from sundry ports at 500,000 bu, and assuming the Russian shipments at 2,400,000 bu, the world's sian shipments at 2,400,000 bu, the world's shipments for the week aggregate 5,320,000 bu. That being under the recent average was instrumental in causing the adverse strength of the forenoon. The primary market receipts, compared with those of the year before, exhibited the same striking deficiency for the present season as they have been doing since it commenced. New York ruled strong and the difference in York ruled strong, and the difference in price between there and here widened to 440 per bu. The visible supply also showed up well for the bulls, but before its figures were announced the day's advance had apparently run its course, and by that time the early buyers were looking for some sus-taining features to hold the market for them while they unloaded. The price of taining features to hold the market for them while they unloaded. The price of September was 72½c when the visible figures were made known, and in twenty minutes thereafter it had declined to 71½c. Chicago receipts consisetd of 110 carloads by rail and 10.500 bu by canal; the latter was all No. 2 red, but only three cars of the rail receipts inspected No. 2 red. Minneapolis and Duluth received 248 cars, against 423 a year ago, and the total of the primary Western markets receipts was 386,000 bu, compared with 1,169,000 bu last year. The export clearances from Atlantic ports for twenty-four hours were equal to about 157,000 bu, including flour. The visible supply nominally decreased 1,250,000 bu. As a Chicago elevator held 493,000 bu which was counted in the stocks in sight last week but was not included to-day, the actual decrease for the week was only 76,000 bu. The total in the visible is now 39,229,000 bu, against 57,157,000 last year, and 59,207,000 at the corresponding date of 1893. The quantity of the ocean passage decreased 2,000,000 bu, and the English visible increased 800,000 bu, and the English visible increased 800,000 bu. After the selling out of long wheat which followed the posting of the visible statement, another set of operators began picking it up again, and near the end it was bringing 72½c again, with 72½c the trading price at the close. The Liverpool, Paris and Antwerp markets all came firm and slightly higher at the close, and Berlin was unchanged for near deliveries and only about ½c per bu lower for the more remote futures.

Corn held quite firm, considering the furmote futures.

Corn held quite firm, considering the further progress under favorable weather conditions and biggest crop on record so far as it has gone. The good demand for cash corn was the mainstay of the special delivery, and it in turn helped May. The receipts are 450 cars. Argentine shipments amounted to 1,424,000 bu last week. The visible supply decreased 734,000 bu, compared with an increase this week a year ago of 125,000 bu. The total of the visible supply is now 5,207,000 bu, against 3,975,000 bu at the same time a year age. The demand for spot corn was of sufficient urgency to make it salable at 1/20 premium over September, and even 1/20 over an exceptionally favorable position. The range for September was narrow, 42%c being the lowest and 43%c the highest for the day. It opened at 430c and 42%c; sold about the same time at 42%c. It clung around 43c during the greater part of the day, and was bringing 43%c at the close. May closed at 45%c, or 1/20 lower than Saturday. Oats were inactive and almost feature-less. The average tone of the market was inclined toward firmness, affected to some extent by a higher cash market, but most-ly in sympathy with wheat and corn. The visible supply showed a decrease in oats of 250,000 bu, and left the total stocks in store than Saturday. 4,887,000 bu. September opened at 22%c, sold up to 22%c, down to 22%c and closed at 22%

The provision trade was dull, and gave The provision trade was dull, and gave very little indication of improvement in prices until near the end of the session, when a demand sprung up which left values at $10.80½ for September pork, 6.37½c for lard, and 6.15c for ribs. These prices, compared with the final quotations on Saturday show gains in pork, lard and ribs of 17½c for the former and .05c each for the

Mr. Worrell Explains.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal In the Cincinnati Enquirer of Saturday was quoted in an interview which greatly man of Indianapolis who has been doing work for the city papers for a number of years came into the office of the Bureau of Statistics, and, without the least inti-mation that he was looking for news for the Enquirer or any other paper, we in dulged in a general talk. While nothing was said which I wish to retract, yet it is exceedingly unpleasant for one who is not seeking newspaper notoriety, or to speak for anyone but himself, to be swooped down upon in an unsuspecting moment and have imputed to him statements which he never made. As to the ownership of farms, there is not a word of truth in the reported there is not a word of truth in the reported interview. In the matter of a United States Senator to succeed D. W. Voorhees, the subject was not mentioned, nor was the name of W. R. McKeen or C. W. Fairbanks. The Enquirer's man evidently got our talk mixed up with that of some one else, for he made no note with non or named design. made no note with pen or pencil during his stay, and I had not the remotest idea of being quoted. As to the free coinage of silver, I am, as is well known, in favor of it. I do not, however, believe that it would be the best policy for this government to undertake it alone, but do insist that our government should put forth its best energy to secure international bimetallism. views on the silver question, I regard him as safe a man for the interests of silver under present conditions as can be secured for President in 1896. His ability, conservatism and respect for the judgment and will of the great body of the American pecple is the foundation of my belief. General Harrison is not wedded to or the represent-ative of a single idea, as is Major McKinley, and is therefore the better man of the two and is therefore the better man of the two for President. And, moreover, while not wishing to abate one iota of protection, there are other questions to be considered. In my judgment the financial question will be up for consideration during the next campaign, along with other questions. Speaking for myself. I am for the use of both gold and silver, as prior to 1873, at some equitable ratio, not for the sake of inflation—for I do not think it would lead to ome equitable ratio, not for the sake of inflation—for I do not think it would lead to inflation to any considerable extent—but for the purpose of putting a stop to all kinds of partisan and "wildcat" inflation, and if this be deemed political heresy, then I know not where to plant myself, since it is a fact that silver occupied an honored place by the side of gold as one of the money metals of the world for centuries, down to the seventles, without incurring the charge of unsound or dishonest money.
